

Video Training That Respects Your Time.

Every online CPR training program offers videos you can watch online—on your own schedule. But not every program has videos you can watch on any mobile device, including all SmartPhones and tablets. We do.

Not every program breaks their training down into short modules for easy, organized studying, or lets you take the test at any point in the training—even before you’ve watched all the video footage. We do.

Not every program lets you pause, rewind, and fast-forward through their videos—allowing you to watch only the parts you need, and skip over the parts you already know. We do.

If you’ve tried CPR training videos from other companies, you’ll notice the difference. Our video modules are built with busy professionals in mind—and are designed to make getting your CPR certification or recertification as easy and fast as possible.

Watch Our Videos, and Learn From the Best.

Watch our videos, and you might notice there’s only one instructor featured in all of them. That’s Dr. Mary Williams, R.N., D.C.—a Doctor of Chiropractic, Registered Nurse, and Core Instructor for the American Heart Association. She writes our curriculums and provides all the training in our videos.

Dr. Williams is the most qualified instructor to appear in any online CPR training video, including those made by the AHA. In addition to her RN and DC degrees, she holds a Director of Staff Development certification from the State of California—which requires 4,000 hours of clinical experience.

With our videos, you’ll get your training directly from Dr. Williams—the most qualified CPR instructor you’ll find in any online program.

Clear, Concise CPR Training—For Busy Professionals.

There are no better online CPR certification training programs on the market today. We’ve invested a lot in production value, design, scripting, and training—so the information is presented in a concise, clear, and engaging manner.

With extra footage including material reviews and remedial study, you’ll learn faster, retain more information, and ace the test. We’re confident you’ll find learning with us isn’t just easy—it’s also fun.
